Newcastle-on-Tyne. A good general view of the prosperous capital of the North of England, as viewed from Gateshead. Prominent features are the beautiful old Cathedral of St. Nicholas, and Newcastle's famous bridges. The High Level Bridge is 1,337½ feet long, the Upper or Railway Bridge being 112 feet above water level; it was constructed by R. Stephenson and T. E. Harrison. The Swing Bridge is 280 feet long, and is so constructed that the two centre arches swing round on a pivot to allow the free passage of ships.
